

Bristol Celebrates

a festival linking faiths, cultures & communities
City Academy, Lawrence Hill on Sunday 21 November 2010

Bristol is home to a vibrant range of communities, each with their own unique customs and cultures, celebrations and history. The Bristol Celebrates festival will celebrate all the different cultures and faiths that make Bristol such a special place to live. There will be an exciting and diverse programme of workshops, guest speakers, music, performance, exhibitions, displays and food on offer throughout the day. It's a chance to learn about others' faiths and beliefs, and to make new friends.

What Would YOU Like?

We are particularly keen to hear from Bristol residents with suggestions about what you would like to happen on the day:

- What do you think would get people excited?
- Can you recommend any musicians, bands or performers?
- Can you suggest a workshop that you'd like to attend or have attended in the past that you think might be popular?
- What can your community/group and those you know contribute?
- Would you like to volunteer to help out at the festival or on the run up to the event?
- Would you like to find out more about the festival?

It is our aim to use the festival and related events as a launch pad for future work to improve community relations in Bristol, so we would like to hear your ideas about that as well.
